

LTAM 6000: Adv Topics Latin Amer Studies, Section 001

PHIL 6050: Topics in Philosophy, Section 001

WGST 6050: Topics in Women's Studies, Section 001

Latina/x Feminist Philosophy

Dr. Andrea J. Pitts

Spring 2021 | Thursdays 5:30-8:15PM

Email: apitts5@uncc.edu

U.S.-based Latina/x feminist writers have explored diverse political, epistemological, ethical, historiographical, and aesthetic themes, including topics within interdisciplinary areas such as Indigenous studies, disability studies, decolonial theory, queer theory, trans studies, healthcare justice, and Marxist critique. This course traces historical and recent work by Latina/x feminists, beginning with writings by women activists of the 1970s in the Chicano Rights Movement and the Young Lords. We will also read selections from new works by authors such as Francisco J. Galarte, Johanna Fernández, Linda Martín Alcoff, and two recent edited collections on Chicana feminist activism and Latina/x and Latin American feminist philosophy.

Course Delivery: 100% online with weekly synchronous meetings