

PHIL 4050/5050: Privacy and Surveillance
Dr. Gordon Hull / Fall 2014 / MW 9:30-10:45

Satisfies Phil. Ethics/
Aesthetics Elective

Whether it's Facebook or the NSA, big data or small, it seems we are always being watched by somebody (and we may not know who). This course will explore the intersection of privacy, surveillance and power that increasingly characterizes life in the twenty-first century. We will look both at traditional theories of privacy, and more recent attempts to account for what it means to be permanently visible, and what we might do about that.